

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

I love my country and I love democracy. For a large media corporation to seek to influence the presidential election through such means that are not fair minded and do not represent the basic values of journalism sickens me and scares me about the future.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
